KLANSMEN CANDIDATES GET MONEY BACK

Tex Ritchie Has Unpleasant Experience at Hamlet. Candidates Get Money Back.

Tex Ritchie, who has been trying to organize a society known as the Klu Klux Klan, hit Hamlet several weeks ago as a profitable field for his operations, but he struck a snag.

He is the man who came to Rockingham and Ellerbe two or more months ago and tried to get the people of Ellerbe to donate 5,000 acres of land to the "Klu Klux Klan." Of course the good people were not taken in in any such manner.

The following in regard to his Hamlet operations is clipped from the Hamlet correspondence to the Greensboro News, of last Sunday:

"Friday night was the time fixed to organize the first lodge of the Klu-Klux Klan in North Carolina, and General Organizer (Texas) A. B. Ritchie, who had been in Hamlet for the past two weeks, was on hand for the ceremony. A large crowd had gathered for the ceremony, many candidates but more spectators to see the candidates enter the building. The ceremony was to be held in the union building. As a strange co-incident just before the time for the candidates to go up for the ceremony a stranger passing through from Wrightsville Beach to his home at Atlanta, Ga., passed the building. Seeing Mr. Ritchie in the crowd he stopped and calling one of the men aside asked what Ritchie was doing. When told that he was organizing the Klansmen the stranger, who was J. D. Eidson, of Athens, Ga., told his hearer that Ritchie, together with one Wm. G. Stellman organized a lodge of Moose at Athens and that he had prevailed on most of the members to transfer their membership to the Klansman, paying an additional initiation. That before the time for the organization and initiation that both Ritchie and Stellman left town, taking all the initiation fees, and that no one had been able either to get the initiation or their money back.

"This statement caused trouble for Ritchie. When the candidates had gathered they prevailed upon Eidson to spend the night at Hamlet and tell the others about it. In the literature furnished the prospective candidates the statement was made that the order owned 5,000 acres of land in Richmond county, where would be developed a home. Upon being pressed for details of the land Ritchie admitted that they did not own any land, but that he had secured an option on the land, which he was unable to exercise.

"Upon the hearing of the statement that the order did not own the land, and after the statement of Mr. Eidson of his experience with the Klansman organization at Athens, Ga., the prospective candidates with one accord demanded their money back. Many of them having paid the initiation fee of $10. Not receiving assurances that the money would be paid back. Mayor Leigh was sent for by the candidates and a consultation was held between the mayor, City Attorney Nash, the candidates and Ritchie. After much discussion Ritchie agreed to return the initiation fee to the candidates, and issued checks at the meeting to all candidates who were present, leaving checks far these not present with the cashier of the Bank of Hamlet."
